

Responsible Traveler Letter

At Pueblo Nativo Resort, we believe a great stay is one that you truly enjoy—everything taken care of—while also leaving a positive impact.

That's why we invite you to travel consciously: care for the environment, respect local culture, and join us in simple practices that make a real difference.

Our commitment

We work every day to make your experience as comfortable as it is responsible:

- Garden & regional cuisine: We foster the “from garden to plate” connection, with activities for guests and childrens to learn about and appreciate local ingredients and traditions.
- Responsible event management: We measure the carbon footprint of selected events and promote continuous improvements.
- Accessibility: We offer accessible rooms and spaces suitable for guests with reduced mobility.
- Waste separation: In our condominiums, you'll find bins for separating waste.

How you can take part (7 simple actions)

Separate your waste whenever possible.

Reduce single-use items: use a reusable water bottle and avoid disposable plastics.

Save water: take shorter showers and make sure taps are fully turned off.

Save energy: switch off lights and air conditioning/heating when you're not in the room.

Respect flora and fauna: don't feed wild animals and keep a safe distance.

Care for the outdoors: take your waste with you on walks and trails—leave places as you found them.

Choose local: crafts, producers, and experiences from the area strengthen the community.

Travel is also respect

Respecting cultures, customs, and people makes tourism fairer and more enjoyable for everyone. We also encourage the protection of children and adolescents and reject any form of exploitation.

Thank you for being part of this.
The way you travel helps shape the destination.
